NOTIFICATION.

Rules 4 and 6 of Order XIII of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, require certain particulars to be endorsed by the Court on documents produced as evidence in a suit. Occasionally, however, though it may be rarely, documents are produced which are of great historic or antiquarian value, such as old sanads or grants, and it is obvious that such documents may be seriously injured by the usual endorsements. It has been brought to the notice of the Hon'ble the Judges that a too rigid adherence to rules intended for the great mass of ordinary documents may lead to old and valuable State sanads being subjected to flagrant maltreatment. The Hon'ble the Judges desire, therefore, that the following observations may be borne in mind by all courts.

It is no doubt important that the identity of a document produced in court and acted upon should be placed beyond question in view of a possible appeal or of possible future proceedings, and in fact the Privy Council have recently drawn attention to the "wholesome provisions" contained in Order XIII, rule 4, and have laid it down that they "will, in order to prevent injustice, be obliged in future, on the hearing of Indian appeals, to refuse to read or permit to be used any document not indorsed in the manner required"—Sadik Hussain Khan v. Hashim Ali Khan, L.R. 43 I.A., 212, at page 237; I.L.R., 38 All., 627, at pages 663 664; vide also High Court Circular Dis. No. 1851, dated the 14th October 1916.

The rules on the subject must of course be strictly followed in dealing with all documents of the kind which ordinarily come before the courts, such as the Privy Council had in contemplation. Instances so exceptional as these now under consideration admit of exceptional treatment, and when a document of historical or antiquarian interest is in question, the Court before which it is produced should make every possible endeavour to prevent its being defaced by endorsements and exhibit marks or by having the seal of the Court impressed upon it. Some means of avoiding such disfigurement will probably suggest itself. The parties will probably agree to a photographic copy being substituted for the original, or the document may be enclosed in a sealed cover or in a locked and sealed box, the necessary particulars being endorsed on the outside. If other means fail, careful measures should be taken for the safe custody of the document pending instructions from higher authority.

Registrar.
